“At AFCPE®, we believe in motivating change. In bridging gaps.”

We believe in making connections through a higher standard of knowledge and empathy. Why? Because we know that the best way to make lasting impact in the financial well-being of our clients and communities is to meet them where they are.

Which is why we are committed to doing the same for you.

We know that people are more than a number they are working toward. We know that financial goals are life goals. And we believe that with access to professionals with the highest level of knowledge, skill, and integrity, we can help individuals and families turn challenges into opportunities.

It is our vision that ALL people - regardless of income or background - should have access to professionals who are committed to upholding the highest standards of financial counseling, coaching, and education.

PAMELA CAPALAD | AFC®, CFP®

Pamela runs a successful financial planning business, Brunch & Budget; cohosts a dynamic podcast by the same name; and is the cofounder of the organization, Pockets Change, which provides Hip Hop + Finance workshops for youth from age 5 to college age.

My Why:
To do my part to help close the racial wealth divide and educate people not only in personal finance, but on how to see their finances in the context of the bigger picture and system.

My best advice for a new professional entering this field:
Get certified in something! It’s not about letters after your name, it’s about doing right by the clients who are counting on you to help them with their livelihoods. Take that seriously enough to be held accountable for your advice. If there’s one designation you’re going to start with, start with the AFC®. I’m not just saying that, I got my CFP® first and if you want to work with folks who need this information and help the most, the AFC® covers the knowledge base and the behavioral/psychological training you’ll need to help people truly make change.

The CFPB’s Financial Coaching Initiative has been providing free financial coaching services across the country since May 2015. The services are provided through 60 financial coaches hosted by a diverse set of organizations that serve veterans and economically vulnerable consumers.

Coaches working as part of the initiative are highly trained, receiving both the Accredited Financial Counselor® (AFC®) certification and Financial Fitness Coach (FFC®) certification, as well as undergo ongoing financial education training.

The program has seen a steady growth of clients over time and each month has shown record results.

“One thing we got right is the importance of instilling a professional standard for our coaches. Our coaches are Accredited Financial Counselors® (AFC®) and Financial Fitness Coaches (FFC®). This has really raised the bar in terms of the professionalism of the financial coaching field.”

SHANE ENETE | Assistant Professor of Finance at Biola University

Shane is an AFCPE® Member who saw the value of the AFC® and now his program is an Approved Education Program University:

“One of the learning objectives for our financial planning program is to serve both low-income and under-served populations with financial services. When I attended the AFCPE® Symposium last year, I realized that the AFC® was the missing link between the CFP curriculum and non-wealthy households. I went to school in an inner-city area and have a passion to help bring adequate financial help to those who are being overlooked. I want my students to get the same passion as I have, and also develop critical cross-cultural communication skills.

The AFC® is a credential that will enhance just about any career that involves service to others. Whether a student becomes an advisor, counselor, teacher, therapist, pastor, or non-profit worker, knowing how to skillfully address financial issues gets to the root of a basic human need that also is highly connected to their hearts. Any kind of service that addresses both physical and heart-related needs is a great human service.”

Introducing the Setting the Standard Award

The AFCPE® “Setting the Standard” Award recognizes an organization that has made significant efforts and commitment to the high standards of professionalism that every person deserves. This year, the winner was selected by the AFCPE® Board of Directors. In future years, nominations will be open to AFCPE® members!

Inaugural recipient: Bureau for Consumer Financial Protection for their Financial Coaching Initiative.

“I love AFCPE® because of how people-focused the community and organization is. It puts money in its proper place. Not something that is an end in itself, but simply a resource to be managed to help individuals and families achieve their non-financial goals.”
Financial impact for today and tomorrow.

As we look to the future, we are excited to build upon our momentum, continue to build bridges in our diverse community, close key gaps in our field, and continue to strengthen the continuum of care for all people - not just those with wealth.
These funds will be used for:

- Scholarships for certification and training, students, nonprofit groups, symposium attendance.
- Research projects that build collaborations between researchers and practitioners that impact lasting financial well-being.
- Community-based initiatives that focus on solutions to promote financial security in underserved communities, using high standards of professionalism.

Over the last five years, AFCPE® has focused on ensuring a stable foundation for the organization, making strategic investments, and expanding partnerships to help our organization flourish and grow. We are at a point where our finances are stable, we have a healthy reserve fund, and our certification programs are growing. We are able to set our sights on ensuring long-term impact and sustainability of our organization.
