Symposium submission topics should be relevant to personal finance, financial education, and/or financial counseling. Topic areas can include, but are not limited to:

- Communication and counseling skills, including psychology of money, behavioral finance, teaching delivery, etc.
- Working with economically vulnerable populations, including the unbanked, seniors, those transitioning out of prison, etc.
- Regulatory changes, including SECURE Act 2.0, the sunsetting of the 2017 tax law, student loans updates etc.
- Current events, including cryptocurrency, fintech, inflation, etc.
- Advanced topics, including estate planning, alternative financial services, frauds/scams, etc.

Potential Presentation Topics:

- Behavioral Finance
- Borrowing Behavior
- Career Exploration
- College Finance
- Communication
- Consumer financial protection
- Credit/Debt
- Cross-cultural comparisons of consumer financial issues
- Designations
- Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion
- Employment
- Estate Planning
- Ethics
- Faith and finances
- Family Finance
- Financial Abuse in Relationships
- Financial behavior / Behavior economics
- Financial capability
- Financial counseling and coaching
- Financial education
- Financial Fraud
- Financial issues of low-income consumers
- Financial literacy

- Financial planning
- Financial therapy
- Financial well-being
- FinTech
- Health and financial issues
- Health Insurance
- Housing
- International issues of consumer finance
- Investment
- Life cycle issues: college savings/student loans, investing, reverse mortgages, estate planning
- Military
- Networking and Value of the AFC
- Policy
- Private Practice
- Recovery from Financial Shock
- Retirement
- Saving and investing behavior
- Senior Well-being
- Social Issues: Diversity and Inclusion, Poverty Mentality, Scarcity
- State Education
- Student Loans
- Taxes
- Technology
- Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA)
- Young Adults/Teens